BANKING NECESSARY WORK JUST AT THIS SEASON.

POLICE SUNDAY RAID ON STALZAN BANKS DUE TO THE OLERKS.

rired of Working Seven Bays in the Week, So Got Chief Conlin to Cause Their Arrest—The Hankers Say They Must Bo Business on Sunday to Sult Customers. The members of the Italian Bank Clerks' Association have decided that their employers andment. This was the cause of half a dozen Mulberry street bank cashiers and bookkeepers being arrested by ward men of the Elizabeth street station on Sunday morning and arraigned sfore Magistrate Kudlich in the Centre Street

Police Court charged with violation of section 253 of the Penal Code, which reads: "All labor on Sunday is prohibited, excepting the works of necessity or charity. In works of necessity or charity is included whatever is needful during the day for the good order, health, or comfort of the community."

The Italian Bank Clerks' Association was organized about a year and a half ago. It has a membership of about seventy-five, all clerks of Italian banks in different parts of the city. The members of the association have held lately several meetings, at which the hardship of having to work seven days in a week was the sole topic discussion. At the latest meeting, held the latter part of last week, the Vice-President, Virgilio Frascarelli, was instructed to send a letter to Chief Conlin, calling his attention to the fact that their employers were violating the day.

When Chief Conlin received this letter, the sender of which has since lost his job, he ordered Capt. Young of the Elizabeth street station to ere that Italian bankers in his precinct who violated the Sunday law were arrested.

Accordingly clerks or cashlers of G. Lordi, 62 Mulberry street; Aiello, 180 Mulberry street; M. Berardini, 34 Mulberry street; Faust D. Malzone of 88 Mulberry street, and Ange Legniti of 60 Mulberry street, as well as of P. Availanc, who runs a bank at the corner of Bayard and Mulberry streets, were taken into Availone, who runs a bank at the corner of Bayard and Mulberry streets, were taken into custody.

The news of the arrest quickly spread through Mulberry street, and those banks that still remained open closed in a hurry. When the men were arresigned in court, Magistrate Kudlich was inclined, at first, to dispose of the cases by fining the ofienders. When he mentioned the subject of fines, he was surprised to learn that, with the exception of Availone, the one banker arrested, the men arrested dishrt want to be fined or discharged. They wanted to be held to Special Sessions, and there have the merits of the cases examined into. One of the clerks said: "Your Honor, we are guilty. I believe, of a violation of a law of this State, not of our own volition, but because we are compelled to work on Sundays by our employers, or lose our jobs. We want these cases tried and the practice of entosace in keeping their banks open on Sunday stopped."

Mr. Lord, one of the wealthlest and most infunctial of the Mulberry street bankers, when he heard this, said:

"Your Honor, the Italian bankers are obliged to do business on Sunday. The banks are open simply for the benefit of our customers, who live in the vicinity of New York, in Brooklyn, or in the upper part of the city, who cannot afford to lose a day's pay during the week to go to their banker to get their mail and transact their little banking business. If these men are guilty, they are guilty of violating the letter and not the spirit of the law. No one would be better pleased to have all of Sunday for recreation than the bankers themselves."

Mgsistrate Kudlich told Mr. Lord that, if his views were accepted, shoe dealers and grocers and men in other lines of business might, with two lines are allowed to keen even an Sunday Sunday Sunday Runday Sunday Sunday Sunday Sunday Sunday For recreation than the same rest homestees."

io have all of Sunday for recreation than the bankers themselves."

Magistrate Kudlich told Mr. Lordi that, if his views were accepted, shoe dealers and grocers and men in other lines of business might, with equal justice, be allowed to keep open on Sunday. He had never known before of the paradox of lawbreakers prosecuting themselves, but he would send the cases to Special Sessions. Those held furnished bonds. Avallone said that he rents bicycles, in addition to running a bank, and it was to attend to the bicycle business that his store was open. He was discharged.

When seen yesterday in reference to the arrests Mr. Lordi said:

"This Sunday business has always been a accessity with us. We not only do a banking business, but every Italian bank is a sub-station of the New York Post Office. Many of our custemers, most of them in fact, have their mail sent directly to us. This relieves the Post Office of a great amount of work. Instead of being chiged to deliver letters to various addresses, he letters are simply delivered to us, having been directed in our care, and we distribute them. Those of our customers who do not live hear the banks, and many of them do not, would be obliged to lose a whole day each week in order to get their letters and do what banking business they need to were they not able to attend to both matters on Sunday.

"It is not true, moreover, that the banks keep open until 3 P. M. or later on Sunday. The hours for that day are from 6 A. M. to 12 M. But even those hours are much more irksome to the bankers than they can be bester pleased than the bankers than they can be bester pleased than the bankers themselves if the banks were closed on Sunday. We listed the banks were closed on Sunday. We listed the bankers have an association, called the Italian Steamship Agents' Association, of which Mr. Lordi is the President. There will be a meeting of that association some day this week, and the bankers will then decide what course they will pursue about closing next Sunday and succeeding Sundays,
